Partners in Crime is an espionage adventure series about a suburban married couple, Tommy and Tuppence Beresford, who solve mysteries and foil plots in '50s Cold War Britain. Based on Agatha Christie’s classic characters, Tommy (David Walliams) and Tuppence (Jessica Raine) may approach their cases in a somewhat haphazard manner, but their natural guile and daring spirit are more than a match for the spies, assassins and double agents that stand in their way. The first series comprises two stories, The Secret Adversary, here our heroes search simultaneously for a missing girl and a recording that could identify a Soviet hit man living within our midst, and then N or M? where they must identify which person in a guesthouse in Cromer has stolen a nuclear bomb… before it's too late.